

Rulings to the Gift♦

1. If the article to be given in a gift is divisible, the person giving it should give after partition.
2. If a common article is gifted, even though there are differences in the nature of its different parts, there should not be any dispute among them regarding partition and possession of the article that has been gifted. Under this condition, the gift is permissible.
3. It is stipulated for the completion of the gift that the person who has been given a gift must take its possession.
4. If the person who has been given a gift is a minor at the time of gift and his guardian occupies it on his behalf, it is sufficient. There is no necessity of possessing it after coming of age